POLITICAL MEETINGS.

Hon. Chas. Seymour, of La Crosse, will speak, &c., at Reception, Monday, Sept. 20, 21, Tuesday, Sept. 22, 23, Wednesday, Sept. 24, 25, Thursday, Sept. 26, 27, Friday, Sept. 28, 29.

The Democrats are the under dog in the fight in Maine.

Votes are of more consequence to the Republicans than predictions.

Yesterday the Democrats took the first opportunity to smile since Hancock was nominated.

There will be no fusion in Maine in November, and then the Democrats will not have an opportunity to laugh.

State Treasurer Guenther is in Indiana, making Republican speeches in German. He draws well and makes good speeches. He will go to Congress next year.

The Democrats in Maine were too cowardly to take the field on their own platform. They would rather sneak into the Greenback party, than to be defeated fighting for a principle.

The Democrats of the Milwaukee district have renominated Mr. Deuster for Congress. His opponent is ex-Sheriff Casper Sanger, and the Republicans indulge in the confidence that Sanger will be elected.

There is a Democratic paper in Georgia, which has been struck with a little common sense by suggesting, that "if some of our young men could pick cotton as fast as they talk politics there would be more money in the land and less noise in the air."

The Democrats at the Cincinnati Convention declared that the party was in favor of a paper currency based on gold and silver, and yet the Democrats pretend to rejoice over the election of two Greenback Congressmen in Maine, and the probable election of a Greenback Governor.

General Garfield: "While it is true that no party can stand upon its past record alone, yet it is also true that its past shows the spirit and character of the organization, and enables us to judge what it will probably do in the future."

General Hancock: "—"

Have you heard from Maine? ask the Democrats. Yes, the Republicans have heard from Maine, and elect three out of five Congressmen, and have both branches of the Legislature. The Democrats haven't got a thing out of the Maine election, and yet they pretend to be pleased.

Every triumph that the Republican party has achieved in the last twelve years has been grudgingly and hesitatingly adopted by the Democratic party about five years after it was done. There is not an element of power, of strength, of manhood or decency in that party today that they did not borrow from us.—Garfield's Campaign Speech, 1871.

The Democratic paper at Tupelo, Mississippi, seems to have a correct appreciation of Ben. Butler, judging from this editorial item which recently appeared in its column: "We are sorry that B. F. Butler has come back to the Democratic party. He is made of the stuff that Judas Iscariot was, and will betray it whenever he finds it to his interest."

The Greenback party of Wisconsin has taken a strange course in bidding for votes. It is on a par with the general fanaticism of the party. They have instructed their candidates for Congress to serve for $3,000 a year, and to recover the remaining $2,000 into the treasury. The Milwaukee Sentinel suggests that inasmuch as no Greenback candidate has the least chance of election it did not require any great amount of heroism to make the pledge. This act of the Greenbackers is the lowest of all cunning, for every sensible man knows, and the leaders of the Greenback party in Wisconsin know, that if any of the Greenback candidates were elected, they would not hesitate to break their pledge in a moment. Such foolishness will not win in Wisconsin.

State Treasurer Guenther was nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Sixth district, on Tuesday. There was no opposition to his nomination, and consequently he received the marked honor of having the nomination bestowed upon him by acclamation. Mr. Guenther is one of the rising young Germans in this State. He is now filling his second term as State treasurer, and in that capacity has won the confidence and respect of thousands of friends in all parts of the State. In his own Congressional district he is exceedingly popular, and the Republicans there express the confidence that he will defeat Gabe Bonck, the Democratic nominee. Two years ago Mr. Bonck was re-elected by a majority of 2,601. At that time Dr. Steele, President of the Appleton University, ran as the Greenback candidate, and being a Republican and personally very popular among a certain class of Republicans, drew quite largely from Mr. Jones, the Republican candidate, having received over 5,000 votes. It is not likely there will be a Greenback candidate in the field this year, so that the contest will be between Guenther and Bonck, and in a square fight, Guenther will win.

There are three prominent candidates for the nomination for Assemblyman in the 1st district in this county. Mr. Seth Fisher, of Center, will be supported by his friends in this part of the district. He served in the Assembly in 1869, and made a very careful, trustworthy, and industrious member.

Mr. John Huntley, of Avon, a man of broad intelligence, and well known in the district, will also have his name presented to the Convention.

Mr. M. V. Pratt, of Evansville, who has been prominent in local politics for a long time, and who would make a practical man in the Assembly, is mentioned as a candidate, and will receive the solid support of his town.

In the 3d district, Mr. James Menzies, of Harmony, who is well-known for his long and valuable services on the board of supervisors, of which he is chairman, will have his name presented to the convention. His nomination would be a credit to the district.

Mr. Thomas Austin, of Johnson, one of the largest and most successful farmers in Rock county, has consented to be a candidate, and we understand will be supported by the delegation from Johnson.

Mr. H. S. Slaymaker, of Turtle, will allow his friends to use his name before the convention. Mr. Slaymaker is a representative man, well informed on State and county matters, and would do honor to Rock county in the Legislature.

It has been said that Dr. Lord would not be a candidate for re-nomination. He made an excellent member last winter, did a good deal of work, and did that work well. Some of his friends think he should permit his name to be used in the convention, but up to this time he has not consented to become a candidate. He was one of the most faithful members that ever represented that district in the Assembly.

We understand that certain ones who deem themselves interested in temperance, are circulating a pledge among their temperance friends, and thereby securing a promise not to vote for Senator Richardson for re-election. It is to be hoped that no true Republican will be caught in this way. There is a good deal of sound sense, deep wisdom, and praiseworthy loyalty, in the remark a prominent temperance worker made at Madison the other day—"my country first, and prohibition second."

This should be the motto of every worker in the good cause of temperance. Nothing can be gained for temperance by voting against the Republican party, but on the other hand the cause will suffer a loss. Any vote cast for a prohibition candidate or against the regular Republican nominee, is a vote practically for a Democratic candidate and against temperance reform.

The issues this fall are of far mightier importance than that of deciding between two methods of working for the suppression of intemperance. The question this fall is as weighty as that on which the Republican party triumphed in 1860, when it crushed the slave-power, and gave the world Abraham Lincoln. The issue is whether or not the slave aristocracy of the South should dictate to a free and mighty North. After twenty years the same spirit rises in the South, and those once engaged in a deadly conflict against the Union and for slavery and power, are now trying to gain the control of this government. This is the issue. It is a grave issue.

It is one which should make Republicans think soberly and act firmly and cautiously. The entire strength of the party should be drawn out, not on the Presidential question alone, but for Congressmen, and for State Senators and county officers. There should be a solid vote for every Republican candidate, that those who seek to carry out the murderous policy of delivering this government into the hands of Confederates may see that the North is in earnest in this momentous matter. For these reasons we ask that those who are taking the untimely step to circulate the pledge in opposition to Senator Richardson, will pause for a moment, and reflect that such a course would be absolutely harmful to the work of temporal reform.

A Woman of 37 the Mother of Twenty-One Children.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
Mrs. Mary Ann Dean, known as the mother of many children, died last night at her residence on Wash street, between Seventh and Eighth, of congestion of the lungs. She was 37 years of age, and was a native of Ireland. Twenty years ago she was married by Father O'Bannon at the church of the Immaculate Conception, in this city, to Anthony Dean, who lives to mourn her loss. Several years ago Mrs. Dean attracted considerable attention by giving birth to four children at once, three of whom died in infancy, and the other is still living. She was the mother of twenty-one children, of whom there were three pairs of twins, two sets of triplets and four were born at one birth. Since the quadruple birth she had twins once. Ten of her children are living. Mr. Dean has but one arm, and carrier of the Evening Chronicle.

MAINE.

Special to the Gazette.

AUGUSTA, Sept. 15.—Republican leaders are now figuring on a slight majority for Davis, but the official count will be necessary to determine how much.

PORTLAND, Sept. 15.—Three hundred and twenty-four towns give Davis 63,440, Plaiside 61,087, scattering 316. There are yet 180 remote places to hear from. Most returns now coming show Republican gains.

The Republicans have 35 majority on a joint ballot in the Legislature.

NATIONAL CLUB.

Special to the Gazette.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 15.—The National Republican Club convention met here to-day at the wigwam. There was a mass meeting to-night. Twenty States are represented.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Senator Blaine's Dispatch to General Garfield—The Result.

MENTOR, Ohio, Sept. 19.—General Garfield received the following dispatch this afternoon:

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 15.
To General J. A. Garfield, Mentor, Ohio:
"The net result of yesterday's election, as nearly as can be stated at this hour (3 p. m. Tuesday), is about as follows: The Republicans have carried the First, Second, and Third Congressional Districts, while the Fusionists have carried the Fourth and Fifth. The Republicans have carried both branches of the Legislature by a strong majority, reaching, perhaps, two-thirds of each House. On the present votes for Governor, Davis and Plaiside have each over 72,000 votes, with the probabilities in favor of Plaiside coming out a few hundred, perhaps 1,000 ahead. The result is undeniably a surprise to us, and generally to the mass of the Democratic party in Maine. Our canvass was never more accurately taken, and it showed on Wednesday last a total vote for Davis of a little over 70,000, with a probable majority of 6,000 at the time. The four days preceding the election we lost over three thousand votes by means best known to the managers of the national Democratic campaign, and do not call for further specifications from me. The total cost is variously estimated at from $70,000 to a 100,000, and the money all came from beyond the State. Such scenes were never before witnessed in Maine."
J. G. BLAINE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—This afternoon Edward McPherson, Secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee, telegraphed Senator Blaine for definite and authoritative information as to the situation in Maine. To-night at 10:30 o'clock, he received the following reply:

"The Legislature is two-thirds Republican in both branches. Three Republican Congressmen are elected, and the vote on Governor is so close that it will require the official returns to decide it."

J. G. BLAINE.
PORTLAND, Sept. 14, 6 p. m.—Two hundred and sixty-nine towns give Davis 57,222; Plaiside, 53,997; scattering, 300; total, 111,519. The same towns last year: Davis 54,243; Smith, 54,920; Garcelon, 18,217; scattering, 250; total, 108,730. Davis' majority, 2,925, against last year, 2,950.

The towns to be heard from gave, last year, the Republicans, 14,770; Fusion, 13,940—a Fusion majority of 4,170. Docting Davis' majority heard from, leaves a majority against Davis of 1,245, and a Fusion majority of 800.

PORTLAND, Sept. 14, 7 p. m.—The latest returns from the counties show the Legislature stands: Senate—Republicans, 13; Fusion, 13. House—Republicans, 89; Fusion, 62. Frye's majority is estimated at nearly 1,800. Fogg, Fusion, was cut by about 300 voters in Androscoggin County.

PORTLAND, Sept. 14, 8 p. m.—Three hundred towns give Davis 50,113; Plaiside, 53,123; scattering, 315; total, 111,519. The same towns last year: Davis, 57,222; Smith, 57,518; Garcelon, 17,421; scattering, 215; total, 112,376. Davis' majority, 2,243, against 1,243 last year, a Republican gain of 110.

The towns to hear from gave Davis

11,791; Fusionists, 14,888; Fusion majority, 3,097. Deduct the Republican majority thus far heard from, and the Republicans lack 754 of a majority.

FIGHTING OVER IT.

Democrats and Greenbackers at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 14.—There has been music in the air to-night. During the day the Democrats decided upon holding a jubilation meeting to rejoice over their victory in Maine. The Greenbackers got wind of this, and decided to capture the meeting, feeling that to them alone belonged all the glory. The Democrats learned of this, and succeeded in organizing the meeting. They then put up the Hon. J. M. C. Robinson, and General Palmer, who heard their campaign speeches, saying very little about Maine, with the evident intention of turning out the crowd. Robinson declaimed the ranks of the crowd, but Palmer scattered them, and when at a late hour he finally became exhausted the Greenbackers who had remained holding their time, raised a perfect storm of calls for their representative. Al Carpenter, took the stand and poured hot shot into the Democracy. Carpenter said he was unable to see what there was in the victory in Maine to cause the Democrats to rejoice. He was greatly surprised that Palmer, holding the views he did, rejoiced so much at a Greenback victory. The ticket elected in Maine was not nominated by the Democrats. It was claimed there was a fusion in Maine, but it was a lie. A proposition had been made to divide the Electoral vote there, but it was not and would not be accepted.

The Greenbackers were widely enthusiastic over Carpenter's speech, and the Democrats were thoroughly disgusted over the unexpected turn affairs had taken in their jubilation meeting.

NEW YORK.

Elaborate Arrangements for the Great Republican Mass Meeting.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Arrangements of the most elaborate character have been made for the Conkling meeting to come off on Friday evening at the Academy of Music in this city. Over 400 letters have been received by the Committee of Arrangements, by persons outside of the city asking for tickets of admission to the building. Only those having tickets will be admitted, and the balance of the public will be notified to stay away. Two thousand tickets were distributed to-day and as many more will be given out to-morrow. Twenty-five hundred boys in blue under the command of Major General Carr will participate in the parade, besides a large number of campaign clubs in uniform. Conkling's speech will be looked forward to with great interest, and it will doubtless be the event of the campaign in this city.

EIGHTH DISTRICT.

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 14.—The Democratic Congressional convention will be held here to-morrow afternoon. A full delegation is expected. The probable candidate will be C. W. Silverthorn, of Wausau. Mr. Silverthorn is a man of some ability though not one who can compete with Governor Paine with much hope of success. In this district there is a very unanimous feeling among the Republicans, and Senator Silverthorn will be laid on the Democratic altar and sacrificed under about two thousand majority. Governor Paine's majority over Barrows (Greenback and Democratic candidate) two years ago was one thousand.

WINTER WHEAT.

WATERTOWN, Sept. 14.—The farmers of this section are busy sowing their winter wheat. The ground is in excellent condition for the work, and about double the acreage will be sown over that of any former season. It is safe to assume that fully one-half of the wheat raised hereabout next year will be winter wheat, the farmers having become discouraged trying to cultivate spring wheat, through the partial failure of the crop for several years past.

HENRY WALDRON.

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—The Hon. Henry Waldron, Representative of the Second District of this State for several years in Congress, died suddenly at midnight, at his home in Hillsdale, from the rupture of a blood vessel of the brain. He was a prominent banker and business man, and Republican politician of his section for twenty-five years.

WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 14.—The Republicans of the Fifth district to-day nominated the Hon. Eliza Coleman, of Fond du Lac, for Congress.

The Republicans of the Sixth District nominated State Treasurer Richard Guenther, of Oshkosh, for Congress.

A GREENBACK VICTORY.

ALBANY, Sept. 14.—General Weaver, Greenback candidate for President, at a largely attended meeting to-night, referred to the Maine election as a victory for the Greenbackers.

BETHANY, ONTARIO.
GENTLEMEN—I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to the great benefit I have received from the use of one of the wonders of the world, that is, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to neuralgia, causing extreme deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort, I tried the Electric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored.

I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, &c.; in fact it is our family medicine. Yours truly,

A BALE OF SILK.

The Chinese Ambassador Attends a Private Soiree in Paris.

Think of the excitement in Paris when it was known that on Saturday evening last the wife of the Chinese Ambassador was going out en soiree to a private house.

The mysterious one proved a little disappointing as a beauty if the truth must be told. As at first seen, moving forward in her heavily-lined dress, she looked like the mere animating principle of a bale of silk. Her black hair was strained back from the face, to finish off in a wondrous artistic confusion of pins and feathers at the back. She is several shades darker than her lord, and a thick impasto of white powder struggles unsuccessfully with this natural gloom. It is the honestest painting ever seen—there is that to be said for it; as scornful of all concealment as the painting of a clown, which it so much resembles in its thickness and its sickly white. It was the same with the little daughter, who had not reached the mature dignity of paint, and who was several shades darker than the still smaller seven-year-old brother by her side. This scrap of humanity had the complexion of his papa, the awful Marquis, who maintained impenetrable reserve of look all the evening behind his gold-rimmed spectacles, and who at times seemed to find his responsibility for this desperately risky evening's amusement rather more than he could comfortably bear. He saluted the ladies with much grace by removing his plumed hat and laying it on the table in the drawing-room.

His infant son supplied animation for the whole party. He may not have been allowed to laugh at the conjurer, but he did it, and at one point he made an absurd attempt to raise himself on the tips of his clumsy thick-soled boots, which was about the best thing in the whole entertainment. His mother seemed to enjoy the thing amazingly. She never took her almond orbs off the conjurer. There seemed very little mental difference between one and another in this section of the family. They were all babies. The noble Marquis may be said to have brought his three children to the fete, instead of his wife and two. The daughter was but a smaller mother in frame, and in look there was little to distinguish between them. These Chinese faces are just as young and just as old as you please.—London World.

Cure for Cholera.

About the year 1849 or 1850, a malignant and fatal type of Asiatic cholera prevailed in New York. During the prevalence of the disease the New York Sun repeatedly published the following recipe for the cure of diarrhea which always preceded a collapse of the disease; asserting that it was an infallible cure, and urged everybody to have a vial of it in their pocket, for use, in case of sudden attack away from home, often fatal if not immediately checked. It was perfect success.

We give the recipe as published in the Sun, leaving druggists to determine what triple strength means.

Take equal parts of:

Tincture of Opium.

Tincture of Rhubarb.

Tincture of Cayenne Pepper, triple strength.

Essence of Peppermint, triple strength.

Spirits of Camphor.

Mix in vial. Dose for adult, 5 to 30 drops, according to violence of symptoms. Repeat every 10 or 15 minutes if needed.

A GREAT HELP.

Useful Information for Good Housekeepers, and Others.

It is a little remarkable that so many families in our large country towns and their surrounding regions have not more universally imitated the example of the poor emigrant, who, on the moment that he lands, looks about him and proceeds to get his potato patch and his cow into action. Of course in cities and their immediate neighborhoods such a thing is impracticable; but in towns built like the most, loosely and over large territory, and where almost every house has its bit of land about it or behind it, a dead waste takes place, and a great help is thrown away in failing to procure "the little cow," as the affectionate Irishman is wont to call this generous provider. And this was never more worthy of consideration than at the present, when, for some fortunate reason, the price of a cow is so wonderfully moderate that the animals are all but given away, and a good one can be procured without trouble for thirty dollars. A couple of acres of land will comfortably pasture the creature, once in possession, through all the summer months; or, if one has not the land, a small sum of money will pay for the pasture elsewhere, and the winter feed is less than three tons of hay with a few bushels of meal. The work of taking care of her is so light that no man in any family of moderate circumstances needs to grumble if called upon to do it, but as he very probably will grumble, it is a blessing to know that a small boy, in consideration of fifty cents a week, and often for a quart of the day's milking, may be had, in the greater number of towns, able and willing to do all the service that the Dame of the Crumpled Horn usually requires.

As this is a subject which comes home directly to the housekeeper, we shall be pardoned if we dwell upon it a moment. It will be seen that the outlay is not large which procures and maintains this household comfort; and what a comfort it is it will not take long either for the purse-holder or for the mother of children, or for the cook distracted over her desserts, to discover.

Wherever there is a cow giving the usual quantity of milk, there needs to be actual hunger; it supplies a score of deficiencies; and even where hunger is not in question the bills of the butcher and grocer are very sensibly and healthily diminished by large rations of milk served to those that can drink it, which even the most delicate and dyspeptic can do with the tasteless addition of a little lime-water, especially if they remember the favorable action of "milk-cures" in many cases, which probably means nothing more than, cure by means of a nourishing food easily assimilated, as other food may not be.

Very few families feel themselves able to contract and pay large milk bills, and they are apt to go without more than just enough for tea and coffee, or perhaps the exact needs of the baby. But when the milk is in the pans, and they are not feeling the cost of it, they find its advantage not only in the pleasure and comfort of beautiful draughts, but in the thousand and one varying dishes which it makes possible, and which were previously reckoned as too expensive for daily use. Thus in the more generous table made possible the well-being of the family is increased, as enriching and blood-producing diet can not help doing.

What a comfort it is to the housekeeper to have her pans of milk ready to surrender their rich skins of cream only those who can tell who have been suddenly taken unawares by "company" without a satisfactory dessert on hand, or who are at a loss for something just a degree nicer than common for breakfast, since this cream is capable of being whipped and poured into a countless number of hurried forms, and is more palatable than the other, and is deliciously plain and untintured over the simple breakfast cake, while served with a common apple pie, or with even a dish of boiled oatmeal, or with old-fashioned "preserves," it gives a delicacy and daintiness that delects one into thinking the desert of the finest. Meanwhile there is left the "skimmed milk," for which the cook has endless uses, for which the pig has only too thankful, and on which, if one has a little pig as well as a "little cow"—although that we never will advise—the pig can be fattened royally. The good house-mother also may find that the men of her family who have a plenty of rich milk to drink will not seek any thing much stronger or more hurtful; and it will always be a help to her harder and a balm to the feeling that hates to dismiss a "tramp" without food, lest it should be the traditional "angel unawares," if there is a big bowl of milk to be handed out to him.

We do not mention at length the ineffable comfort, saving and satisfaction of having one's own butter at command, for one can not do every thing with one cow; and remembering the vulgar but veracious adage that one can not have one's cake and eat it too, we understand that we can not use our cream and still have butter. There is, nevertheless, now and then some one cow which deserves fame, which gives a family all the milk they can drink, the cream they can use, and furnish enough cream besides for a good quantity of butter; and if we ourselves have never met with her, yet her report has reached us. But they that ever realized the charm of "high-grade" butter which once tasted makes those who used to spread the thinnest possible skin of butter on their bread afterward eat as much butter as they do bread, will realize a still greater charm when the butter is of their own production, and will be willing either to keep an extra cow, or to be sparing in the use of the cream of the one cow, for the sake of having that luxury all their own, and will think nothing of the care that the necessity for purity and cleanliness occasions, which, after all, when the routine has become established, is hardly a noticeable addition to the house-work. Nobody knows, but those that have experienced it, the pleasure and pride to be had in the giving to less fortunate friends and neighbors, of little dainty pats of golden butter made and stamped by one's own hand, looking as if the cow that produced that butter were fed only in heavenly pastures.

To crown the whole, the pleasure to be gained in the love and admiration of the cow that adds all this comfort to our household arrangements is something more than money usually can procure. For as those sleek sides, those great moon eyes, those gentle ways, are almost as good in the yard as the daily sight of a Cupid would be in the parlor; and there is something very humanizing in the presence and possession of the pretty creature. One grows constantly more and more attached to her; and we have seen the little half-bred Jersey, bought when a calf for ten dollars, increase her value in her owner's estimation at such gigantic rates, as month by month went by and that owner revelled in the luxury of boasting of her points and her beauty, that there was apparently not money enough in the world to buy her.—Harper's Bazar.

How to Make a Bed.

The first thing to be done is to put on the bed-spring, which should be hung in the closet of the chamber nearest the kitchen, that there may be no excuse for not using it every time the beds are made. The next thing is to place two chairs about eighteen inches apart, and near the foot of the bed. Remove the pillows and lay them on the chairs; grasp the counterpane, and with a gentle pull and toss, lay it across the arms and place it orderly upon the chairs. Remove the quilts, comfortables and sheets in the same manner, and lastly, lay the bolster across the chairs. If the feather tick is heavy, it is decidedly tiresome for weak backs, and need not be removed, but with a quick motion it may be rolled up near the head of the bed while the mattress is being shaken up.

A word about the shaking: If the mattress is a tick filled with straw or husks, scarcely two persons would stir it. My mother always makes splendid looking beds—high, carefully oval and soft, to a degree I can never hope to equal, simply because I do not like to occupy them. I always want the bed to be level, showing little depression where the body has lain, and the smooth mattress, covered in summer with an eight or ten-pound cotton mattress, and in winter with a feather tick, suits me best. Several years ago, when I occupied a bed alone, I seldom thoroughly shook up the straw oftener than weekly. One summer, when Freddie slept with me, I used to raise a little ridge in the center of the bed to keep him from rolling against me while asleep, as children are quite apt to do.

After the mattress is arranged at the foot, the feathers can be carefully rolled down and the head of the bed shaken up; the feathers should be stirred and lightly patted smooth, and the bolster shaken and laid in place. If two persons occupy the bed, give the benefit of the fullest end of the bolster to the one who desires the head highest. Take hold of the first sheet carefully (it will be heavy) and pick it up if properly laid down, and with a quick motion toss it over the bed, allowing it to cover the bolster well, and tuck it down at the head. Lay on the second sheet, allowing the hem to reach midway of the bolster, and tuck down both sheets all around the bed. Spread on quilts and comfortables, and lastly the counterpane, taking care that all are an equal distance from the head of the bed. Shake up the pillow and lay them smooth, and bring the shams from the closet where they were tightly folded the night previously, and the bed is made.

The advantage of having two chairs is that as the articles are taken off one by one they can be laid in order, and there is no danger of the unpleasant feeling that the part covering the feet one night will lie over the face the next. I used to think it very tiresome when mamma insisted on my removing the articles separately; but I now see the wisdom of the plan, and whenever I see any one heedlessly rolling the bed-clothes together and off the bed, I wish they could have the chance I had of learning to remove them properly.

If the size of the room will allow, it is preferable that the bed stand far enough away from the wall to allow easy access on either side. Aside from the convenience, thorough night ventilation is more easily managed. But under any circumstances, one must not forget that fresh air is as essential as sound sleep in a well-made bed.—Gussie Thomas, in Country Gentleman.

BRIEFLETS.

—September half gone.

—The clouds have sprung a leak again.

—The Janesville Baptist Association is in session in Beloit.

—Competitive drill of the Guards tomorrow night for the Glass medal.

—The Peak family have decided to appear in Lappin's hall one week from tonight.

—Jim Green, common drunkard, has been sent to jail for forty days and forty nights.

—James Smith and John Morris, drunk, $2 each and costs. Couldn't pay. Sent down to jail for one week each.

—The case against Mr. Canary, for selling liquor on Sunday, has fallen through, the chief witness having disappeared.

—The New Orleans minstrels had a very light house at Watertown, but a little better one at Waupun. They are not out of the woods yet, financially.

—As will be seen by notice given in another column, Prof. O. S. Fowler, the veteran phenologist, and his son-in-law, F. W. Austin, will lecture in Lappin's hall, Thursday and Friday evenings, Sept. 16th and 17th.

—The business done by the new Afton branch of the Northwestern road, is surprisingly large, and leaps over the expectations of even the railroad officials. One day's tally showed that seventy-six passengers went over the road, and it wasn't a very lively day for travel either.

—The trial of Mrs. Fogarty for the murder of her husband, is expected to commence at Elkhorn two weeks from today. If the Mack case has anywhere near the length to which it was drawn out on the first trial, it will be close work for the District Attorney and others interested in both trials.

—The school records bear one rather remarkable case, that of Miss Ella Godden, now a member of the fourth grade in the High School. From the time she entered the very lowest department of the public schools, some nine years ago, she has not been tardy at a single session of school, and has been absent but one half day during the entire period. That is a record to feel proud over.

—Jim Fain the veteran soldier and drunkard, having been set free from the custody of a guardian, took what little money was coming to him, and spent it in gloriously celebrating the event. He pranced up and down Milwaukee street with the jubilation of a hundred boys just let out of school, and so onlivened things that the Marshal had to let him cool off in jail. He will stay there five days longer, by order of Justice Nolan.

—It may be a very cheap sort of recreation to use the telephone wires for fun, but it is demoralizing to business. There is so much chaffing and badgering and joking over the lines, that when a person means business, it is hard work to make the fellow at the other end of the wire believe it. The other day one of the officials stepped up to a telephone to send an important message. He was in a hurry, had to catch a train, couldn't stop to fool, and yet the fellow at the other end wouldn't believe but what it was some joker, and hence in answer to every inquiry he would tell the official to go where the Manitoba wave would fan his brow, to pull down his chin, and wipe up his vest, and similar language familiar to the boys. The official was naturally indignant, and quit in disgust, and threatened to have the telephone taken out of his office altogether. Such instances are frequent. If the telephone is to be used for clownish purposes it will soon be of no avail for business purposes. Quit that joking.

OFF FOR WAUPUN.

Sheriff Comstock started to-day for Waupun with the necessary papers for the deliverance of the person of James Snell to the custodians of the State prison. The Sheriff took other interesting papers with him, they being orders for Steve Snell and Frank Dickerson, whom he will bring to Jefferson as witnesses in the Mack murder trial.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Chief Engineer Young's report for the last three months, shows that the department has been called out seven times, the causes of the alarms being: lamp explosion, one; sparks from locomotive, two; sugar boiling over, one; children playing with matches, one; sparks from cupola, one; chimney burning out, one. The total loss did not exceed two hundred dollars.

The Chief recommends the purchase of eleven rubber coats for the East side engine company, and one for the Chief Engineer to replace those worn out. He also recommends that Fire Department Committee submit some plan for ventilating the stables connected with the engine house. The department is reported as in good condition for hard and quick work.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS. The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 62 degrees above; at 1 o'clock A. M. to-day at 49 degrees above; at 7 o'clock A. M. at 52 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock P. M. at 61 degrees above. Rain. The indications to-day are, for the upper lake region, falling followed in the western portion by rising barometer, southerly veering to westerly winds, rising followed in the eastern portion by falling temperature, clear or partly cloudy weather, followed by increasing cloudiness and occasional rain.

WHISKY SOLD TO BOYS.

Last night Marshal Hogan found two boys in a sadly intoxicated condition on the track of the St Paul railroad near the round-house. One was only twelve years old and the other only fourteen, and yet both were so drunk as to be scarcely able to walk. They were taken to jail and this morning on being brought into the Police Court answered to the names of Michael Joyce and Thomas Nash. They were committed to jail for two days each, and before going down were questioned as to where they got the liquor. They said they bought it at Ben George's saloon. Accordingly a warrant was issued against George charging him with selling liquor to minors. He in turn appeared in the Police Court and pleaded to the charge, and was fined $40. It is evident that Justice Nolan does not consider the selling of liquor to minors as any minor offense, and all law-abiders will be glad that the penalty has fallen so speedily after the offense. The law has frequently been violated in this respect, and this is not the first time that the sickening sight has been presented of mere boys swaggering drunk along the streets, but in most cases it has been difficult to prove where the liquor was bought. In this case there is no doubt, and a man who will deliberately sell liquor to a boy of twelve years, will get little sympathy if the law makes sad havoc with his pocket-book.

THE DEMOCRACY.

They Meet in Mass Convention to make up County Ticket.

The Rock county Democrats met in mass convention this afternoon for nominating candidates for the county officers, and for State Senator. The convention was called to order by E. J. Carpenter, and John Hackett, of Beloit was chosen chairman, and George Poller, of Evansville, Secretary.

Mr. John Dawe, of Porter, was then nominated unanimously, but also declined.
